

atching James Bond. Surprise—it's Zoolander 2. nélope Cruz plays a beyond-gorgeous Interpol estigator in this long-awaited sequel, out February (The plot's typically nutty, but in brief: She's trying figure out why the world's most beautiful people ep turning up dead.) Ben Stiller and Owen Wilson y be hamming it up as ex-top models, but if one can pull off a killer look, it's this snappy lady.

THE SURVIVORS

Janice Y.K. Lee's absorbing, poignant novel The Expatriates revolves around three Americans living in Hong Kong, each struggling with a personal hardship, including an unexpected tragedy and a crumbling marriage. This isn't a tale of women kicking butt and taking names; it's a much more nuanced story of the ordinary heroism needed to move past some of life's worst experiences. It's a great read and a testament to the strength and resilience we all have.

AND... YOU!

We know you open your heart (not to mention your wallet) to charities you care about well before and after February 14. Now there's an easy way to find thy new causes to love. Google's free One Today app shows a different nonprofit each day, based on your interests, and lains the impact of your donation. For example, $1 means a pair hoses for a Kenyan child. Giving's easy through the app, so get dy to change a life—and have yours changed—on the regular.

CLOCKWISE FROM BOTTOM LEFT: MICHAEL TRAN/FILMMAGIC; SAEED ADYANI/NETFLIX; WILSON WEBB/PARAMOUNT PICTURES; COURTESY OF PUBLISHER.